CALIFORNIAVOLUNTEERS SPONSORS NEW PLAYGROUND AT THE SALVATION ARMY OF SACRAMENTO COUNTY TO CELEBRATE THE LIFE AND LEGACY OF CESAR E. CHAVEZ

Playground is one of six constructed simultaneously by volunteers throughout California to celebrate Global Youth Service Day 2009

SACRAMENTO – CaliforniaVolunteers, The Salvation Army of Sacramento County, organizers from KaBOOM! and hundreds of volunteers joined forces on Saturday, April 25 to build a safe, new playground at The Salvation Army in Oak Park. This playspace project is one of seven sponsored by CaliforniaVolunteers this year to honor Cesar Chavez' legacy of community building and service.

"Cesar E. Chavez was a champion of service and community involvement, and this playground is a great way to honor his legacy," said Karen Baker, Secretary of Service and Volunteering. "This initiative clearly demonstrates the power volunteers have to shape their communities."

"By providing a new playground in less than eight hours, over 250 local volunteers are transforming an empty space into a vibrant neighborhood-gathering place that serves our community's children," said Congresswoman Doris Matsui (D-Sacramento). "The spirit of service has been renewed during this time of economic challenge, and Saturday's activities exemplify that spirit – truly from the ground-up."

Six playgrounds were constructed by more than 1,800 volunteers today in the following communities: Fullerton, San Bernardino, Fallbrook (San Diego County), Lemoore (Fresno County), Delano (Kern County) and Sacramento. On June 22, one additional playground will be constructed in San Francisco.

Planning committees made up of community members, children and parents organized volunteer recruitment, site preparation and safety/logistics for each of the builds. Planning for the playgrounds began in March, when children from each community met with organizers from KaBOOM! and CaliforniaVolunteers to draw their "dream" playspaces, which were used to inspire the final designs. A unique mural and garden will be established at each site to celebrate the life and legacy of Cesar E. Chavez.

The playground construction marks the final day of National Volunteer Week 2009. The theme this year is “Celebrating People in Action” and is designed to recognize individuals across the country that are making a difference through service. Earlier this week, Governor Schwarzenegger proclaimed April 19-25 Volunteer Week and April 25, Youth Service Day in California.

“Today we honor our young people who have committed themselves to making California stronger through service,” said Governor Schwarzenegger.

Since 2007, CaliforniaVolunteers, as part of the Cesar Chavez Day initiative, has sponsored more than 20 playspace builds with more than 6,000 volunteers and supported 77 afterschool service clubs in Title I middle schools across the state.
